DEBATE AMENDMENT TO DELAY ACTION FEDERAL RESERVE, MONEY BILL

Senate Enters Third Day of Debate on Measure; to Issue "Baby Bonds" in Anti-Hoarding Campaign

Washington, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—The senate has decided to talk some more before passing the Glass-Steagall bill to expand federal reserve credit and currency.

Today is the third of debate. If leaders succeed in obtaining a vote late in today's session there probably will be an adjournment until Monday. The president's anti-hoarding campaign brought $12,000,000 out of hiding within the last week and put them to work in business channels. The item "money in circulation" showed in the weekly federal reserve statement made public today a decline of $17,000,000. Normally in this week of the year the decline is only $5,000,000.

early part of next week will find the house and senate composing differences between the bills as passed. The completed legislation should reach President Hoover the latter part of the week.

Introduce Amendments
Several amendments—apparently none with a chance of adoption—have been offered from the senate floor.

Fewer than a dozen votes against the bill are counted in the senate by its advocates. Blaine challenged the bill's currency-issue feature as authorizing partially flat money. Thomas said the one-year limitation on credit expansion might be a "joker" designed to boost republican campaign chances. He said it was an inflationary bill and that the deflation would occur just a year from now—after the presidential election.

To Sell "Baby Bonds"
While senators were accusing bankers of being the chief offenders in the matter of hoarding, Col. Frank Knox, director of President Hoover's anti-hoarding campaign, announced "baby bonds" would be sold in an effort to entice hoarded money into useful channels.

These bonds, Knox said, may be of denominations as low as $25, and in many respects will resemble war-time liberty bonds. They will bear a small rate of interest and will be redeemable on demand, he added, thus making them almost as convenient as cash.

Knox said the bonds would be issued early next month. One of the greatest difficulties at present confronting him is how to make the bonds attractive enough to purchasers without making them an inducement to draw money from banks to buy them.

MILITARY BURIAL TRAPPER'S VICTIM

Aklavik, Northwest Territory, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—A burial with military honors today awaited Constable E. Newt Milen, slain in the eight weeks' fight of the Royal Canadian Mounted police against Albert Johnson which ended when the crazed trapper was killed.

Capt. W. R. (Wop) May, aviator who aided the hunt for the madman stood by here ready to start a 1,700 mile flight with Milen's body to Edmonton, Alta., where it will be given burial.

The condition of Staff Sergeant E. F. Hersey, seriously wounded in Johnson's last stand improved slightly today. May postponed his takeoff until physicians could determine whether it would be necessary to take the injured man to Edmonton for an operation to extract the bullet fired by Johnson.

Stores Here Observe Half Holiday Monday

Stores in Brainerd will close at 1 p. m. Monday and remain closed the rest of the day to observe Washington Bicentennial year, the board of directors of the Brainerd Credit Bureau announced today.

Frustrate Attempt at Life of L. A. Mayor

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—An asserted attempt to kill Mayor John C. Porter of Los Angeles was frustrated in the executive's office today when a man with a gun was captured.

A squad of police detectives rushed to the mayor's office in the city hall when the alarm was sounded. The man was disarmed and taken to police headquarters in the same building for questioning.

McAdoo Throws Support to John N. Garner in Presidential Race

Los Angeles, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—William Gibbs McAdoo, secretary of the treasury under President Wilson, threw his support today to John N. Garner of Texas, speaker of the house of representatives, for the democratic presidential nomination.

McAdoo, widely followed democratic leader, said he "was greatly impressed by his sound judgment, by his broad comprehension of political, social and economic problems, by his integrity—moral and intellectual—and by his high character and practical ideals."

VOTE $5,000 AID FOR STRICKEN FARMERS IN TWO COUNTIES

STATE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL ASKS ON RECOMMENDATION OF LAMSON

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—An appropriation of $5,000 for relief of poverty-stricken farmers of Murray and Pipestone counties was voted today by the state executive council.

Lamson, secretary, told the executive council that $5,000 would furnish temporary relief and save some 500 farmers and their livestock from the threat of starvation. Lamson estimated that between $20,000 and $25,000 would be needed to carry them over until the planting season begins. The Murray county board already has levied $15,000 for the poor fund and the fund is being spent at the rate of about $2,000 a month and at present is $7,500 "in the red."

Feed for milk cows will furnish the best relief for it will put them on a producing basis, Lamson said. Half a dozen families consisting of more than half a dozen persons are trying to exist on weekly cream checks of about $1.50 to $2.

The average amount of food on hand—for both humans and livestock—is about sufficient for two weeks, Lamson said.

upon recommendation of William H. Lamson, secretary.

PLAYS ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE FOR USING SCHOOLS IN PLAN

CHARGES LEAGUE WITH ENLISTING COLLEGES IN DISSEMINATION OF PROPAGANDA

Washington, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—A bitter attack on the Anti-Saloon league for using schools and colleges "for the dissemination of prohibition propaganda" was launched before a senate sub-committee today by Rufus S. Lusk, executive vice commander of the Washington battalion of the Crusaders, militant wet organization.

Appearing at a hearing on a bill of Senator Bingham, Rep., Conn., which would legalize four per cent beer, Lusk essayed to prove that the Anti-Saloon league has conducted an extensive prohibition lobby "to bludgeon appropriations through congress" and subsidized a far-reaching program of dry propaganda in the schools under the guise of scientific temperance instruction.

Lusk submitted figures prepared by the Crusaders to support his argument that "prohibition has not prevented the drinking of liquor, and therefore it is indeed a dismal failure."

Among his exhibits was a chart of the city of Washington, showing the national capital liberally peppered with small dots, and entitled "dots mark the spot where booze has been bought."

Many raids took place, he said, in the vicinity of headquarters of dry organizations, and three were on government property.

N.Y. STOCK EXCHANGE BANS SHORT SELLING EFFECTIVE APRIL 1

RULE DOES NOT STRICTLY PROHIBIT SHORT SELLING BUT MAKES IT MORE DIFFICULT

New York, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—The New York stock exchange has placed restrictions on short selling here effective April 1.

The new rule, which was announced after the close yesterday, provides in brief:

Members of the exchange shall not on and after April 1 lend either to themselves or to others securities held on margin for customers unless they shall have obtained separate authorization in writing permitting such lending.

Brokers also are required to notify customers at intervals that such authorization may be revoked on their order.

It should be pointed out that all margin customers heretofore have been obliged to agree to such lending before they could purchase on margin. This was done through signing a "blanket consent agreement." They also had the right to revoke such consent.

The effect of the new rule, therefore, is not to prohibit short selling but to make short selling a little more difficult. Here is how it works:

A "bear operator" or one who "sold short," is one who sold stock he didn't own in the hope of buying it later for less money and delivering to the owner from whom he borrowed through the broker's office. His selling depressed prices. And he was enabled to depress prices by borrowing stock really owned by someone else who was hoping prices would advance.

OLSON DISMISSES CHARGES AGAINST WAREHOUSE BODY

GOVERNOR IN DECISION FINDS NO GROUNDS FOR REMOVAL OF COMMISSIONERS

St. Paul, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—Governor Floyd B. Olson today dismissed charges of malfeasance against the state railroad and warehouse commission in connection with its investigation of alleged grain tampering in the Farmers Union Terminal association's elevator M in Minneapolis.

In a lengthy decision, the governor, who heard State Senator Gerald T. Mullin prefer the charges and the commission and the terminal association defend against them, found no grounds for removal of the commissioners as Mullin had petitioned.

Olson took occasion, however, to criticize the federal grain grading laws and pointed out injustices to the farmer which the laws allow.

Members of the railroad and warehouse commission are Chairman O. E. P. Jacobson, Frank W. Matson, St. Paul, and C. J. Laurisch, Mankato.

In a memorandum attached to the report, the governor said in part:

"It appears to me quite conclusively from the evidence had in this proceeding that the farmer producer of wheat is discriminated against by law in the marketing of his product."

"The federal grading law provides that wheat, even though its protein content and food value be high, cannot be graded No. 1 wheat and command the price of No. 1 wheat unless it weighs 58 pounds or more to the bushel. Wheat weighing 57.9 pounds per bushel is classified as No. 2 wheat, with a consequent reduction in market price upon a direct sale to an elevator. Its weight may easily be raised to 58 pounds per bushel by merely running it through legs and spouts of an elevator and if that be not sufficient to raise the weight it may be cleaned and scoured. The unfairness and discrimination becomes even more apparent if lower grades..."

"I do not mean by these observations to impute any unfairness or misconduct to the Farmers Union Terminal association."

DE VALERA GAINS IN POLL OVER COSGRAVE

Dublin, Irish Free State, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—If the Fianna Fail party led by Eamon De Valera, ardent anti-British republican, holds the lead it is piling up hourly in the Free State general elections, it will introduce at once a measure to abolish the oath of allegiance to the king of England, it was understood today.

The returns will be complete by Saturday, it was believed.

With practically two-thirds of the 146 parliamentary seats accounted for, the De Valera party was leading President William T. Cosgrave's government party by a 14-seat margin.

The returns at 1:30 p. m. were: Fianna Fail, 47; Government Party, 36; Independents, 9; Official Labor, 5; Farmers, 2.

Consolidation Corral Largest Gold Properties

Deadwood, S. D., Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—Organization of the Black Hills Consolidated Mining Corporation today brought together the largest acreage of gold mining properties under one management.

The corporation is organized under the laws of the state of Nevada with a capitalization of 2,000,000 shares, only a part of which will be issued at this time.

The properties included in the new corporation are: The United Mining Co., 4,400 acres; the Golden Reward Consolidated Mining and Milling Co., 3,200 acres and the North Homestake Mining Co., 1,200 acres.

G. O. P.'s Hint Brown as Candidate for Governor

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—A questionnaire sent out to Republican party leaders throughout the state today indicated that Earle Brown, former Hennepin county sheriff and now head of the state highway patrol, may be the party's favorite choice for governor at the next state election.

Preliminary returns of the questionnaires show Brown leading the list of likely candidates with former Governor Theodore Christianson second. Representative Oscar Swenson, Nicollet, speaker of the 1931 house, and N. J. Holmberg, former commissioner of agriculture, are prominently mentioned.

Brown has not indicated his desire to run for the governorship, Republican leaders said.

Teacher Sues in "Love" Ouster

Norma Philen, above, 25-year-old school teacher, has filed a $50,000 damage suit against R. B. Boettcher, banker and president of the school board at East Bernard, Texas. She claims Boettcher "slandered and humiliated" her while investigating reported trouble between her and Z. B. Crump, school principal, over Victor Holchek, 19 year old student athlete. She accuses Crump of discharging her after she had spurned his advances. Crump previously charged her with carrying on a love affair with Holchek.

CARDOZO RECEIVES INDORSEMENT OF SENATE COMMITTEE

PROTESTS REFERENCE TO JUDGE'S FATHER AS "HITTING BELOW THE BELT"

Washington, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—The judiciary sub-committee considering the nomination of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo to the United States supreme court today voted unanimously to report his nomination favorable. The sub-committee was composed of Senators Robinson, Indiana; Schall, and Ashurst.

A few minutes earlier the committee had listened to attacks upon the nominee and his father by William H. Anderson, reformer.

The attacks included the charge that Albert Cardozo, the father, was "owned body and soul" by the famous Tammany character, Boss Tweed. Cardozo, new chief judge of the New York court of appeals, was attacked by Anderson as a "second generation Tammany judge."

Anderson quoted a book on Boss Tweed, spectacular and corrupt political leader of 60 years ago, as saying that Judge Albert Cardozo was "owned body and soul by Tweed."

Senator Ashurst, Dem., Ariz., immediately protested the reference to Cardozo's father as "hitting below the belt" and as an attempt to "visit sins of the father upon the son."

U.S.-BRITISH RESIDENTS FLEE AS MAJOR BATTLE SHANGHAI DRAWS NEAR

Chinese Troops Begin Shelling on Chapei Front After Rejecting Jap Ultimatum to Withdraw by Saturday

First Actual Pictures of Fighting On Page 7

By United Press

American and British residents began evacuating the danger areas of the international settlement in Shanghai as the hour drew near (5 p. m. CST today) for the major battle of Shanghai.

The Chinese, rejecting the Japanese ultimatum, began shelling on the Chapei front and the Japanese replied. Under cover of the artillery firing, troops, munitions and supplies poured towards the front for the battle. Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese generalissimo, conferred with government leaders at Nanking and urged the Chinese troops to fight.

The British cabinet met to consider the situation. The league council convened privately at Geneva.

Brisk Artillery Duel

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press) Shanghai, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—A brisk artillery duel between the Chinese and Japanese batteries on the northeast Chapei front began tonight, prelude to the big battle set for Saturday morning.

The bombardment was expected to continue intermittently all night long and American and British residents began evacuating the threatened areas of the international settlement.

The Chinese shells started several fires near the Rokkusan gardens, inside the Japanese defense area of the settlement.

The American church missions and St. Luke's hospital in the Hongkew area were evacuated inside the French concession, well away from the danger zone.

The Japanese guns were the busiest diverting the attention of the Chinese batteries, while final preparations were made for the battle, the Chinese having definitely rejected the Japanese ultimatum.

Jap Lines Active

The Japanese lines inside the settlement were active. A constant stream of olive-drab trucks sped towards the front lines with ammunition and supplies.

Further indications of Chinese solidarity in the face of the serious Japanese menace to China were given today. The most significant was the return of Chiang Kai-Shek, recent president and still the Chinese generalissimo, to Nanking, where he conferred with Wang Ching-Wei, executive head of the government; Lo Wen-Kan, foreign minister, and others at the foreign office.

Chiang, who has been in the background of the struggle, if not actively opposing the resistance of the 19th army, described the ultimatum today as "a humiliating blow to the Chinese people, as well as to international treaties."

"The Chinese troops must resist to the best of their ability," he declared.

Chiang told the government conference that the local authorities at Shanghai had been instructed to reject the Japanese demands as "manifestly impossible to accept."

League Meeting March 3

Geneva, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—Joseph Paul-Boncour of France asked Japan at a session of the league council today to retain her ultimatum at Shanghai long enough to permit negotiations to be pursued.

"If the ultimatum is delayed, the world will rest more calmly tonight," he said.

Geneva, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—The council for the League of Nations convoked a session of the assembly today for March 3 to deal with the dispute between Japan and China.

Amaizo Golden Syrup was the first syrup to be accepted by the American Medical Association Committee on Foods. The official seal as above will be found on every can.

Amaizo Golden Syrup and Amaizo Crystal White Syrup are approved by Good Housekeeping Institute and bear the Good Housekeeping Seal as above.

You KNOW Amaizo is delicious and healthful

Amaizo Golden Syrup comes in cans like this, bearing the Amaizo name and a blue gingham label. A table syrup, a cooking syrup, and a syrup approved for modifying milk for infant feeding.

Amaizo Crystal White Syrup, of purity and quality equal to that of Amaizo Golden Syrup, is a clear syrup for use in making those dainty cakes and sauces in which it is desired to avoid color. It comes in cans bearing the Amaizo name and a green gingham label.

It's a fine thing to know that Amaizo Golden Syrup is as good as it tastes. • That while your family is enjoying its delicious flavor, they are also benefiting from its high food value. • While the children are smacking their lips over Amaizo Golden Syrup on pancakes or waffles, or on the after-school slice of bread, they are getting a syrup of such purity and quality it is accepted by both the American Medical Association and Good Housekeeping Institute. • Amaizo Golden Syrup is easily assimilated by young and old. It does not clog the appetite nor upset the stomach. • It is not only a particularly high-grade table syrup, but it is useful in the kitchen for making cakes, desserts, candies, etc. • Your grocer has Amaizo Golden Syrup, and you will find that it costs you no more than do ordinary syrups.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stedfeldt and family expect to move to their new home some time this week.

The cold weather doesn't seem to interfere with our Sunday school, as the children are always glad to be in their places every Sunday morning.

SERIOUS ACCIDENTS IN MINES ON CUYUNA RANGE CUT 50 P. C.

The letter submitted to the Board of Commissioners by Louis Erickson, county mine inspector, shows a fifty per cent decrease in serious accidents in the mines of the Cuyuna range. Erickson's letter gives special credit to the Sagamore and Mahanomen mines operated by the Pickard-Mather company, which have the unusual record of two years operation without a single lost-time accident in a total of 34,775 man shifts.

The Louise and Alstead open pit mines, operated by the Manganofer's Iron company, also showed a record free from lost-time accidents during 1931, with a total of 6,281 man shifts.

Credit for the decrease in accidents, Erickson says, is due to the interest and cooperation of the mining officials as well as to the decrease in active operation.

Mildred Dedicates New Chapel Sunday

Mildred—Everything is in readiness for the dedication of the new chapel at Mildred next Sunday. Rev. C. Gabriel of Duluth is planning to be present and will preach Sunday afternoon. There will be special meetings all of next week including Sundays of Feb. 21 and 28.

Rev. Carlson of Duluth expects to be here for Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 24 and 25 and Rev. Smith of Minneapolis for Sunday, Feb. 28, besides other good speakers. Everyone is cordially invited.

Some of the school children have been absent on account of influenza.

Mrs. David Gleason was called to the bedside of her mother who is seriously ill at the home of Mrs. Arvid of Melrose, Minn.

Mrs. Harvey Hoover was at the bedside of her father Mr. Pederson, of Swanberg, during his fatal illness. Mr. Pederson died Wednesday morning. Mrs. Arbogast and Wilma visited at the Leshar home Sunday afternoon.

E. L. Doheny, Jr., Widow to Wed

Mrs. Lucy Smith Doheny, above, widow of the late Edward L. Doheny, Jr., and Leigh Battson, investment banker announced their engagement recently. Both are widely known in California society and club circles. They met a year ago.

Nokay Lake Farmers' Club Meets March 10

Esdon—The Farmers' club met at the Nokay Lake hall last Thursday. An oyster stew was the main dish of dinner which was served by the men.

FORMER CITY YOUTH RITES AT MILL CITY

Funeral services will be conducted in Minneapolis tomorrow afternoon for Edward Risberg, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Risberg, former Brainerd resident, according to word received by Mrs. J. C. Britton, Brainerd.

The youth died after two weeks' illness with pleurisy pneumonia. Surviving besides his parents are three sisters and two brothers, Ruth, Betty, Florence, Bud and Charles.

Everyone enjoyed the program. Program committee for next meeting follows: Mrs. Jim Coffield, Mrs. John Veit, Arthur Peterson, E. G. Roth and John Howard. The next meeting will be on March 10.

Jim Coffield and John Veit motored to Brainerd on business last Monday.

The ladies' aid plans to meet with Mrs. C. C. Wilson next Thursday.

Miss Florella Mathison visited at the E. F. Gross home last Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Robertson are the proud parents of a baby girl born Feb. 7.

Jim Coffield visited school Friday afternoon. Coffield is on the school board.

Harry Boeder, Miss Norraime Mathison and Sam Workman were visitors at the A. Mathison home on Sunday. A. Mathison and daughter, Florella, and L. E. Robertson were Brainerd callers on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Coffield and family enjoyed a goose dinner at the John Veit home Sunday.

A. Mathison and son, Clifford, visited at the L. E. Robertson home Sunday afternoon.

The pupils enjoyed a Valentine box at the school Friday afternoon. A treat of two kinds of candy and popcorn balls were also enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Veit and Miss Florella Mathison visited the boys' logging camp on Monday night. A nice lunch was served consisting of ice cream, cookies and coffee, with Scott Elmore head cook, Ernil Mathison and Wm. Nelson, dishwashers.

Killer Serves on Murder Jury

Caught on a charge of murder after 29 years of freedom, George Presnell, 59, alias George Miller, shown here, lived for 20 years in Centerville, Ia., where he served 3 times on juries, once concurring in conviction of a man on a similar charge. ## South Long Lake Club Studies Poultry Project

South Long Lake—The South Long Lake Improvement Club met Thursday, February 11th at the home of Mrs. R. B. Thompson, studying the first of a series of lessons on poultry.

The meeting was called to order by president Mrs. H. C. Hughey. The minutes of the last meeting were read by secretary Mrs. R. B. Thompson and approved. The group will meet March 3rd at the home of Mrs. J. I. Dillan for the second lesson. The leaders were, Mrs. H. C. Hughey and Mrs. Oscar Hauggerde. They talked on rearing chicks, and many interesting suggestions were given on the care of chickens.

Following the meeting a tasty lunch was served. Members were not present although many braved the storm.

Art Smith Contracts to Supply School Wood

Lake Edward—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bedore and Miss Josephine Brenna spent Sunday at the Claude James home in Merrifield.

Friends of Miss Annabell Lester will be glad to hear she is much better at present.

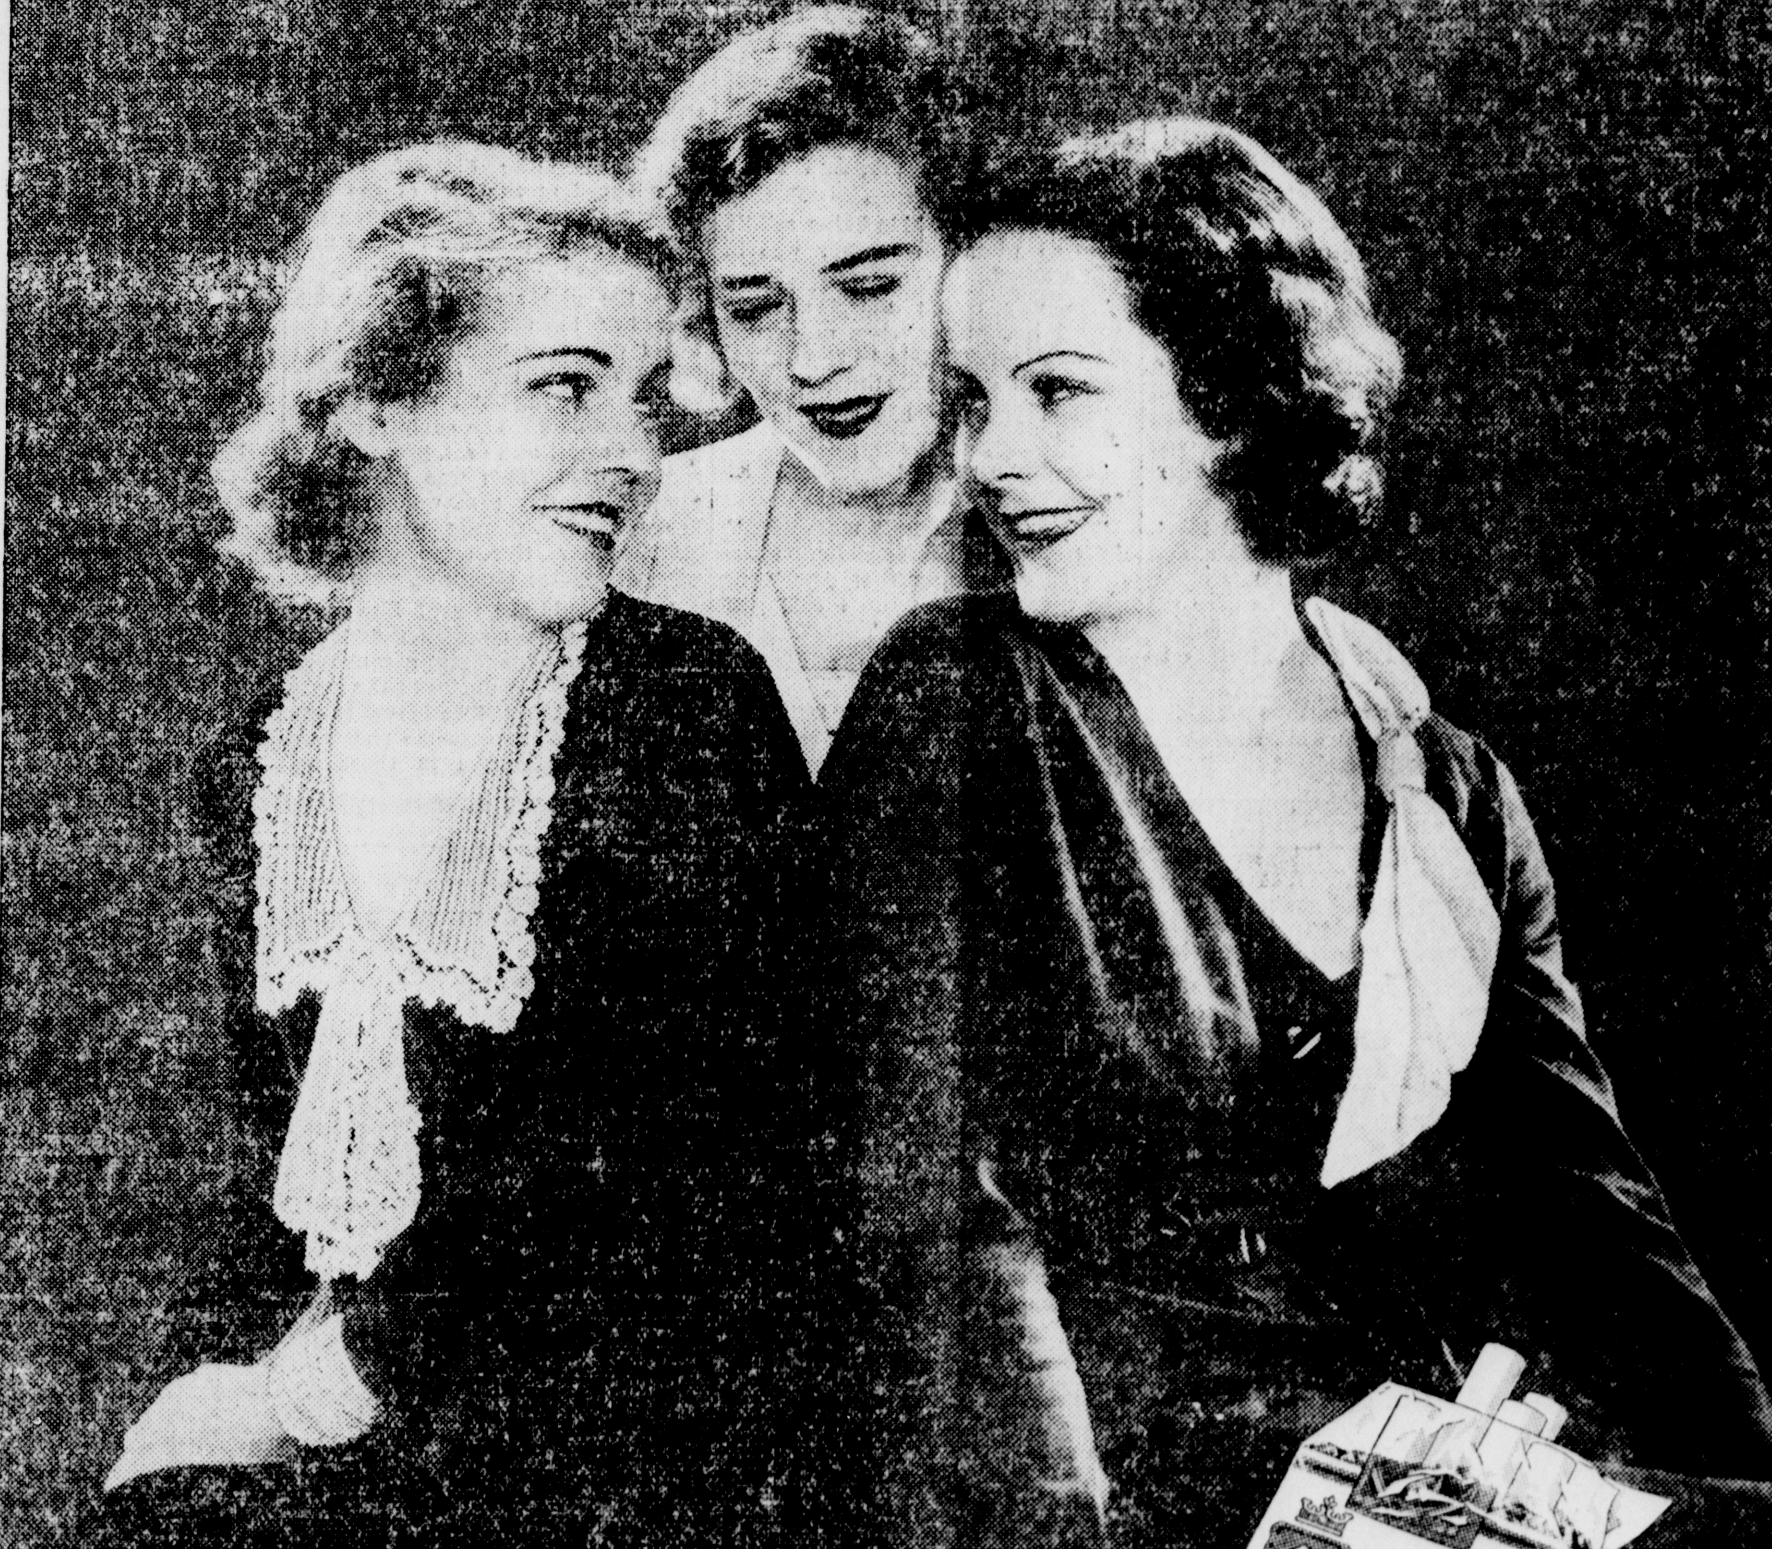

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hudson made a trip to Brainerd Friday. Brainerd conducted services in the Lake Edward school house Sunday afternoon.

Louis Buchite spent the weekend with his family. He is driving truck rearing chicks, and many interesting suggestions were given on the care of chickens.

Bids were received by the school board of Dist. No. 35 Saturday afternoon, for the years supply of wood. Mr. Charles Bedore has been substituting for the regular teacher, Miss Daisy Bane who has been ill for the past 2 weeks with the flu.

Three young ladies
put their heads together...

THEY WERE TALKING ABOUT SMOKING... whether girls should or should not smoke; but it came out that all three of them had been smoking for a long time.

They were asking each other what made a good cigarette. And after discussing one thing and another, they agreed that a cigarette should be milder.

They thought also that it should taste just right—that is, not over-sweet, but on the other hand, not bitter—just sweet enough.

And everybody, they said, wants anything that is placed in the mouth just as pure as can be.

Then they began to think what cigarette, if any, filled this bill; and agreed that CHESTERFIELD was milder—tasted better—and was pure. The girls were satisfied, because "They Satisfy."

CLEARING THE WAY--

The average citizen, who knows practically nothing of the intricacies of high finance and who counts himself wealthy whenever his bank account gets as high as $200, probably finds it hard to get excited about the congressional bill to expand Federal Reserve credit facilities.

He is willing to take it on faith that this is an important measure. But he can't see just how it is going to help him, and now and then he probably feels that the government might well worry more about his individual plight and less about the plight of the banks—which, he thinks, are swollen plutocratic institutions anyhow.

An examination of the things the bill will do, however, might give him a new point of view. In the end it is more likely to put money in his pocket than any other single congressional enactment.

To begin with, the bill would create new credit by making many new kinds of commercial paper eligible for rediscount at Federal Reserve banks. Even more important is the fact that it would permit government securities to be used as a basis for the issuance of new currency.

Under present laws, only gold or commercial paper can be used for that purpose. The depression, by contracting the flow of commercial paper, has operated in a very direct way to cut down the emission of new currency. Under the new law, it will be possible to put around $1,000,000,000 in new money into circulation—which, in turn, will provide facilities for credit to the extent of at least $10,000,000,000.

It will mean, in short, a change from a period of "tight money," as the homely old expression has it, to a period of "easy money." Banks that today are on the verge of bankruptcy will be able to stay open. Industrialists who are postponing expensive projects will be able to get the money for them. The small business man who has been unable to borrow the money he needs will be able to get it. New orders, new business, new jobs will be the result.

Will this mean an immediate return to prosperity? Perhaps not. But it will clear the way for such a return. It will provide the only possible basis on which such a return can be made.

A WISE MEASURE--

Representative Hamilton Fish of New York has not always appeared before the public as the sponsor of wise and enlightened legislation. But the resolution he introduced recently to prohibit exportation of arms or munitions from the United States to any nation engaged in war looks like the sort of bill behind which liberals and peace-lovers might well unite.

Of course, this would be costly to the munitions-makers, in case of a large-scale war anywhere on the globe. But it ought to be an excellent thing for the nation as a whole.

Acting as purveyor of arms to a nation in war-time can be a very good way of getting directly embroiled in the conflict—especially so since circumstances usually are such that you can't sell to both of the combatants. Representative Fish's resolution ought to be adopted.

BILL SHATOFF--RAIL EXECUTIVE--

A United Press dispatch from Moscow the other day said that one Bill Shatoff, who used to be fairly well-known around Chicago as an anarchist and I. W. W. leader, has been made vice-commissar of railroads for Soviet Russia.

Shatoff, the dispatch explained, never had had much railroad experience in the United States. In Russia, however, he showed an unexpected capacity for getting difficult jobs done, served as director of construction on the great Turk-Sib railway project and proved that he was one of the most capable railroad men in the country.

This transition from minor "wobbly" leader in America to big railroad executive in Russia is an interesting thing to contemplate. One wonders just how many more potential executives of like caliber are being wasted.

HANDSHAKING IS OUT!--

One action of President Hoover's that ought to win whole-hearted support all over the United States is his decision to call off the traditional hand-shaking receptions at the White House on the ground that they "present too great a task for the president at such a time as this."

There can hardly be any argument about the justification of this action. The president of the United States is one of the busiest and most active men in the world. To expect him to waste his time and exhaust his strength in shaking the hands of several thousand complete strangers every so often is nothing less than silly.

Of course, the visitor to Washington who gets a chance to shake the hand of the president has something nice to talk about later. But what of it? Isn't conservation of the president's strength a bit more important than the gratification of this completely meaningless desire?

SMALL BONDS NEEDED--

One of the most interesting suggestions made in connection with the anti-hoarding campaign is the proposal that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation offer a good block of its $1,500,000,000 debentures in denominations small enough to attract the general public.

It is foolish to assail the practice of hoarding cash without realizing that it reflects a very widespread and deeply-rooted public distrust of many of the available mediums of investment. The best way to pull hoarded money back into circulation is to offer an investment about whose perfect safety there can be no possible argument.

Small-size bonds issued by the Corporation would provide such an investment; and it is easy to believe that, if they were made available, a perfect flood of hoarded money would come out to take advantage of the situation.

The dime-a-dance girl

BY JOAN CLAYTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful ELLEN ROSSITER, a salesgirl in Barclay's Department Store, lives with her extravagant mother, MOLLY ROSSITER, her sister, MYRA, and her young brother, MIKE. The two girls support the family. Molly foolishly spends money saved to pay the rent. Ellen decides to work at night at Dreamland as a dance hall hostess, until the sum is made up. The hostesses must wear evening dresses and Ellen owns none.

STEVEN BARCLAY, a man of 37 and Ellen's employer, sees the girl crying and discovers the situation. He offers to give Ellen a dress but she proudly refuses. He then loans her a dress from stock.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

ELLEN had never before realized how many steps there were in the five long flights that led to her own home. She was really very tired but she climbed doggedly for ward, determined not to stop. The hall was hot and stuffy, piled up at the landings with rubbish awaiting the janitor's disposition. The house was asleep. Through thin walls she could hear the heavy sound of breathing and even the restless stirrings of the sleepers. At the second floor she identified a terrifying buzzing sound as Papa Clancy's snore.

She chuckled and pushed on. Halfway between the fourth floor and the fifth she was unpleasantly surprised to see light shining from beneath the living room door of her own apartment. Oh, dear, someone was still awake! All the way home on the subway she had planned to hop straight into bed and drift off to sleep on the tide of her own glamorous imaginings. She did not want to share those imaginings or to discuss her experiences of the day. Now there was no help for it.

With a resigned sigh she unlocked the door and stepped into the Rossiter living room. Molly Rossiter, bright-eyed and wide-awake, sat at a battered mahogany table playing solitaire. Molly's solitaire was the joke of the family. Whenever she was beaten it was her habit to rearrange the cards and to proceed with the play. By faithfully adhering to that system, she never failed to run out all her cards.

"I've just beaten old Sol," she announced innocently as Ellen entered.

Then she sprang up and ran to greet her daughter.

"Sit down, darling," she urged. "You look tired to death. Do you want coffee? Shall I risk it or will you make it yourself? Did you have a good time? Tell me everything."

"Help, help," pleaded Ellen faintly, as she sank into a chair and pushed her hat back off her damp forehead. "You'll have to give me a chance. I'm going. Don't bother about coffee. I'm going straight to bed."

"Not before you tell me all about it, are you?" Molly wailed in childish disappointment.

She wrenched the card free and tore open the envelope.

"You should have gone to bed, honey," Ellen told her, as her temporary annoyance faded. "But since you didn't, what do you want to know especially?"

"I couldn't have slept a wink," Molly protested earnestly, clasping her hands about her bare knees. "I was too anxious to hear about everything—about the dress particularly. Did you look beautiful? Where is it?"

"It's at Dreamland. I guess I looked all right," Ellen tackled the questions in reverse order.

"Oh, Ellen don't be so provoking! You aren't telling me anything! You only said over the phone that Mr. Barclay had lent it to you. What was he like? Was he nice?"

ELLEN understood that Molly wanted to know whether or not Barclay had been personal. Her mother was trembling with eagerness to share Barclay's every intonation, his every facial expression. What had he done? What had he said? How had he looked? She wanted to know not only what Ellen had thought but even what Ellen thought Barclay had thought. In short she was prepared for a sentimental orgy.

Ellen could not help being mildly irritated when her mother was in such a mood.

"He was rather nice," she answered listlessly. "He's quite old, you know—not likely to be enthusiastic. But extremely kind."

"Then you saw him only in his office?"

"He drove me to Dreamland," Ellen conceded reluctantly.

"Ellen, that's simply marvelous!" Molly exclaimed ecstatically. "I was sure this morning that something was going to happen. I told you. Don't you remember?"

"Oh, stop it!" Ellen wanted to say.

But she managed to hold her tongue. Molly, lost in romantic speculations, saw nothing of her daughter's discomfort. Nor did Ellen realize and not quite truthfully assure herself that Barclay had said not one word to indicate any thing except a friendly interest, dislodged Molly from her firmly entrenched notion that he had fallen in love with Ellen upon first sight of her.

Ellen forgot how important the meeting with Barclay had seemed before that other meeting at Dreamland. She forgot that there had been nothing palid about Steven Barclay's image in her mind until she had looked into Larry Harrowgate's shining, admiring eyes.

Not until Barclay and the drive through the park had been pretty thoroughly gone into was she allowed to escape to bed. One thing Molly's tireless cross-examination had failed to elicit—the story of the meeting with Larry Harrowgate.

ELLEN woke in the morning to hear subdued giggles. Something furry brushed across her nose and she opened her eyes quickly. Mike's kitten, Buzz, scampered to the edge of the bed and hopped to the floor. Mike himself, seated cross-legged at the foot of the bed and wearing a suit of shrunken pajamas, was responsible for the giggles.

As the girl stretched her arms over her head she felt that the world was very fair. She laughed joyously with her young brother and as she laughed all thought of sleep vanished. The early morning air was sweet and cool, promising a radiant day. This was the beginning of the day that was to mark her first engagement with Larry Harrowgate. Her mind was busy with delightful planning.

What would she wear? She could carry the pink afternoon dress, a legacy from Aunt Myra, and change at noon when her duties at the store ended. Or would it be better to appear in the same costume she wore at work? Absorbed in those delightful possibilities, she leaned forward, pulled Mike into her arms and tousled his hair until he squealed with delight.

"Oh, gee," gasped Mike, after a few minutes of uproarious roughhousing. "I forgot to tell you. Someone came for you. That's why I was to wake you up."

"What came?"

"A great big long box with lots of green ribbons."

Flowers! From Larry? Ellen was out of bed in a flash and into the living room. Myra and Molly were both at the table examining a giant florist box.

"It's from McClelland's!" Myra called out excitedly. "Mother and I thought you'd never get up. Did Mike wake you?"

Ellen's fingers trembled with the novel delight of tearing away green ribbons and massed layers of satiny paper. Roses, wet and darkly red—dozens of them!

"How many are there?" Molly incoherently demanded.

"Millions, it looks like. I can't count them. Oh, the beauties!"

She wrenched the card free and tore open the envelope. The ink had blurred with dampness but the writing was perfectly distinguishable. The writing was not Larry's.

"To the success of your new venture, S. B." read the message.

Ellen was ready to cry in her disappointment. She had been so sure! Myra and Molly were far too pleased and fluttered to notice anything amiss. Flowers and baubles in the Rossiter household were rare enough to cause any amount of excitement.

"I told you, I told you," Molly was insisting. "They're from Mr. Barclay, aren't they?"

"Yes," said Ellen.

THE girl read the message a second time in an effort to recapture some of her original delight at receiving such a splendid gift and failed. The card fluttered from her fingers. Molly pounced upon it. Together she and Myra read the short note and exclaimed and speculated and jubilated quite enough to make up for any lack in Ellen.

An umbrella stand was rushed into service. It was the only vessel in the house deep enough for the long stemmed beauties. Deploping the wastefulness Molly cut down the smooth green stems of half a dozen buds and arranged them at the shabby breakfast table. But her eyes were all for the tall splendor of the blooms in the stand pulled close to Ellen's chair.

"They're four feet long if they're an inch," she murmured happily, slipping into her place at the head of the table.

"Mother, if you say that again," Ellen said crossly. "I'll scream."

"I'll join you in the screaming," Myra offered amiably. But she added with a curious look at her sister, "Aren't you pleased, honey?"

"Of course I'm pleased," snapped Ellen. "What am I supposed to do—dance a jig?"

"Ellen's got a fellow! Ellen's got a fellow!" chanted Mike, catching belatedly the excitement of his elders.

"Be still, Mike," said his mother absently. "Don't tease your sister." She and Myra exchanged a long, significant look. Ellen caught the look. It occurred to her a little forlornly that the only person in the Rossiter household not delighted with Steven Barclay's generosity was the recipient of it.

Thoughts for Lent

"I Was Not Disobedient Unto the Heavenly Vision"

(Read Acts 26:1-20.)

Although we are always glad to have the Light of God's Radiance in our lives, we often find it difficult to follow the Light where it leads. The heavenly vision is sublime. It stirs our feelings and brings us joy. How serene and satisfied the soul which glows with its reflection. Yet the Light beckons onward those upon whom it has shined. The heavenly vision not only is beautiful; it is also dynamic. It points the way toward hazardous undertakings. It brings not only peace but a challenge. Thus, those who have seen the luminous Presence find that their lives are Light-filled only so long as they keep pace with God's messenger. When they sit down to enjoy the Light, it dwindles and then disappears.

Prayer: O Thou who goest before us, help us, we pray, to follow Thee willingly where Thou wouldst have us go. Keep us from all desire for ease and from all sloth of mind and heart, that in Thy Light we may see our pathway clear and, seeing, press on with courage unto the goal set before our feet, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

of labor with a personnel of twenty-nine thousand.

And Mr. Laborer, do you know of one thing the department of labor has ever done to raise your wages or standard of living. In 1926 three million dollars were granted for the operation of the Bureau of Immigration. Since then immigration has by law been curtailed and for six people that came to our shores in 1926, only one came in last year. But Congress has granted ten million dollars for the same bureau this year. Why? Pork Barrel is the only answer.

For quite a number of years there has been a crowd working for a Department of Education in the federal government, if they are successful it will mean another swarm of locusts to infest the land.

We have prohibition with its graft, spies, stool pigeons and other vermin. We have departments, bureaus, and appropriations for almost everything. I have been told you may write to the Department of Agriculture to learn how a bull frog makes love.

When a ship sails the seas for a time her hull becomes covered with parasites, called barnacles, that retard her speed and make her loggy, so they take her to a drydock to have her hull scraped and freed of these parasites. Its about time that we drydocked the good ship, "Uncle Sam," and free her of the barnacles of bureaus, departments and appropriations for bunk. If we don't we will soon be so loaded down with taxes that every two taxpayers will be supporting one government employee, if it is one government employee to eleven taxpayers now, and very one out of work is looking for a soft government berth.

Rub your eyes and wake up taxpayers.

The Open Forum

To the Editor of The Daily Dispatch:
Dear Sir:

According to one of yesterday's Brainerd papers, the Honorable Harold Knutson has introduced a bill in congress making available $100,000 for establishment of an experimental fur breeding farm in northern Minnesota.

Whose money? Yours Mr. Taxpayer, to show a private industry, operated for private profit, how to make more profit in their line.

How do you like that Mr. Garageman? How about our government appropriating money for the construction of an experimental garage to show you how to make a greater profit, you Mr. Grocer, Mr. Clothier and all the rest of you? As a laborer I am going to petition the Honorable Congressman to have congress make available sufficient money to erect an institution, that it would never need more. What here in Brainerd to teach all of us laborers how to get a job in hard times, and to make the most with the least effort when we get it.

An inspiration, good people, an inspiration. Above lies the cure for this panic. Funny with all the smart people in this depressed land, no one has thought of it before.

We will all work for the government. We will have our government build fur farms, garages, grocery stores, laundries, and everything else, all of us who are out of work will go to work for the government on the fur farm, garage and what not and show the rest of you how to make a bigger profit in your line. Of course, after you make this big profit our paternalistic government will take it away from you in taxes, but then, "ain't we got fun."

Here are a few facts: In 1902 the department of commerce and labor was formed, the sponsors of this bill were certain that a personnel of one thousand and fifty would be sufficient and that it would never need more. What have we today? We have a department of commerce, and a department

LEVINSKY TAKES DECISION TO GIVE DEMPSEY FIRST SETBACK

CHICAGO KINGFISH GIVEN EDGE OVER MANASSA MAULER

Chicago, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—Jack Dempsey had the first setback of his comeback campaign registered against him today, but he is not ready to retire.

King Levinsky, Chicago youngster, shaded the former heavyweight champion in a 4-round exhibition bout last night at the Chicago stadium before 23,322 persons, a new indoor boxing record. The gross gate receipts were $74,199.94, of which Dempsey received about $33,000 and Levinsky about $11,000.

A poll of 24 working newspapermen at the ringside on the outcome gave Levinsky 18 votes, Dempsey 2, with 4 even. The United Press scored the bout even.

"I know I looked bad last night," Dempsey said today, "but I expect to have to take a little the worst of it as I go along to get back into the proper shape. I don't know whether I won or lost the fight, but if the newspapermen say I lost, well, I guess, I did. Levinsky is tough and has a dangerous right hand, but not one of his punches hurt me. We are going along just as we have for a month or six weeks longer. One bout isn't enough to determine whether I have a chance to bid for the title."

Dempsey, making his first appearance in a Chicago ring since he floored Gene Tunney for the celebrated "14 count" in 1927, looked like a weak carbon copy of the Dempsey who slaughtered Willard, Carpentier and Firpo.

It was not Dempsey's legs that looked bad last night, but his arms. During part of the third round and the final round Dempsey was arm weary. He kept walking right into the withering fire from Levinsky's two fists, shaking off punches and moving forward, but once inside he failed to throw punches anything like he did even against Meyer (K. O.) Christner a week ago at Cleveland.

Dempsey's legs couldn't have been so bad or he wouldn't have held him up when Levinsky blasted him in the last two rounds with everything he had in his two fists encased in 9½ ounce gloves. At the final bell, Levinsky hooked a left flush to Dempsey's chin after Jack had dropped his arms to his sides, and it didn't even take the smile of Jack's face.

Dempsey, weighing 190 pounds, less than he has weighed for any of his exhibition bouts and less than he weighed for either of the Tunney bouts or the Sharkey bout, won only one round. Crowding Levinsky and throwing those short, cruel punches into the body, Dempsey carried the first round by a good margin. The second was about even, but Levinsky, growing bolder as the fight progressed, had a clear margin in the third, and might have had a shade in the last round.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—Comment of some of the boxing writers and others on Jack Dempsey's appearance against King Levinsky:

W. L. Stribling, Georgia heavyweight—"Dempsey is worn out from traveling around. He needs two or three months in a training camp and he'll look like a new man."

Frank McDonnell, Detroit Times—"Levinsky won every round, but Dempsey can sure take it."

French Lane, Chicago Tribune—"It is most uncertain whether Dempsey will ever reach the end of the comeback trail and win back the heavyweight title."

Harry McNamara, Chicago Herald-Examiner—"Dempsey's once famous weaving and bobbing style has deteriorated into an awkward, almost pitiful shuffle."

Lou Diamond, Chicago Times—"The worst Dempsey got was a draw, and he delivered a lot of body punishment."

Mike Murphy, Chicago Daily News—"Dempsey won on aggressive, cleaner and harder hitting."

Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion—"Dempsey didn't look bad for a man who has been out of the ring 4½ years. He even looked like he might have a chance if he quit this barnstorming and settle down to real training."

Enjoy Card Party at Nokay Lake Home

Nokay Lake—The Vaale ladies' aid met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Sundt Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Johnson entertained friends at a party Saturday night, the men playing cards and the ladies, bunco. Mrs. Louis Anderson won first prize and Mrs. Bert Johnson consolation. A delicious lunch was served at midnight.

Mrs. Andrew Anderson visited with Mrs. Tom Thorson Friday afternoon.

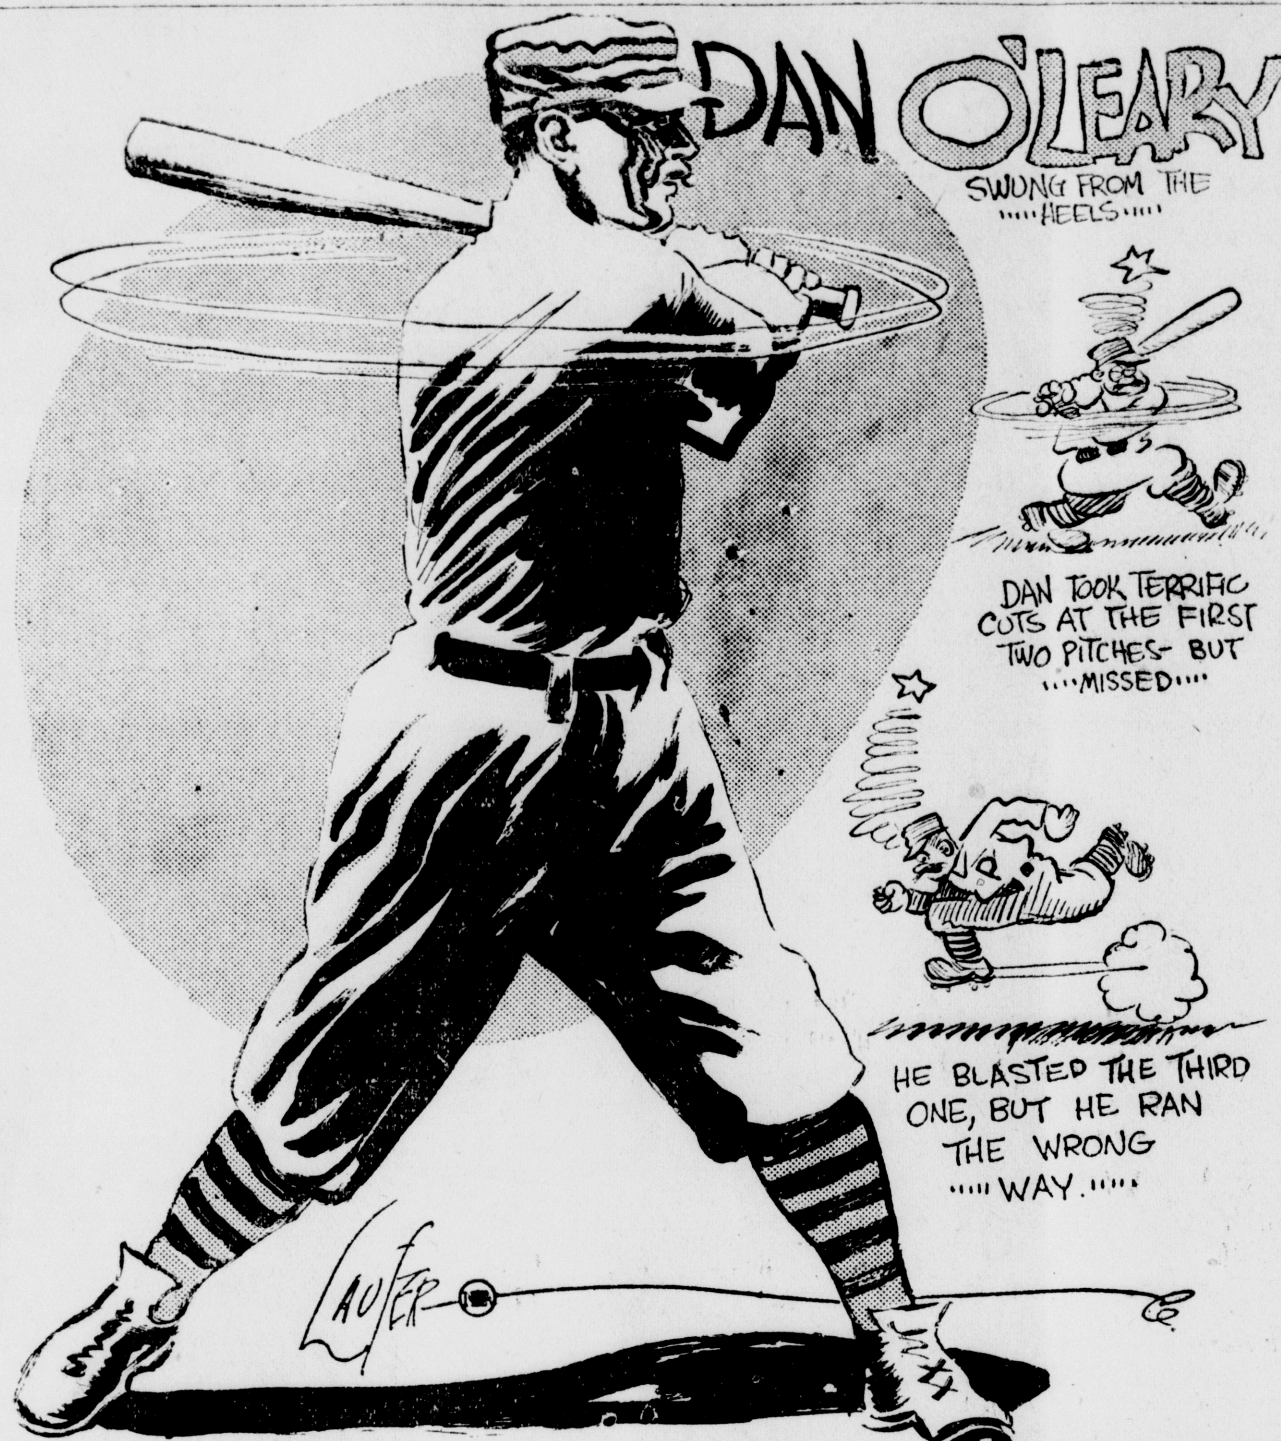

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Johnson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson and daughter visited with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Johnson Wednesday night, to help celebrate Mr. Johnson's birthday.

Sally Sander, Ruth and Joseph Johnson and Eugene Coffield were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson Sunday.

Mrs. Gladys Franzen is working at the Tom Thorson home.

A few relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. O. T. Swelland Tuesday afternoon to help celebrate her 71st birthday. A nice lunch was served and all departed wishing her many happy birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Paulson and daughter, Lois May, Joseph Norli, Andrew Osti and Sylvia Anderson were at the home of Andrew Anderson on Sunday.

THEY ALL LAUGHED WHEN DAN O'LEARY (not the famous pedestrian) smacked a dizzy homer. Back in 1883, the strong Peoria (Ill.) nine engaged Port Huron, Mich., in a game. In the last half of the ninth, with the score 7 to 7, O'Leary of Peoria came to bat. On the first two pitches Dan swung like a dervish but missed. The third ball he caught flush on the trademark—but, swinging from his heels, he fell to his knees as the ball went soaring past the outfielders. O'Leary jumped up, lost his sense of direction and tore for third base. The crowd howled its astonishment, but O'Leary, mistaking the noise for applause, kept running the wrong way. He turned second, and, in a cloud of dust, galloped for first. Oblivious to the ravings of his teammates he put on a spectacular hook slide across the plate. "You're out!" yelled the umpire. "What for?" screamed O'Leary. "For running the wrong way and disturbing the peace," said the heartless official. And the decision stood.

WARRIORS KEYED FOR WADENA TONIGHT TO BUILD FAST PACE FOR TOURNAMENT

Crisler Refuses to Entertain Offers for Wisconsin Post

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—H. O. Crisler, athletic director at the University of Minnesota, today said he would not accept an offer from the University of Wisconsin even if it included a five year contract and a "flattering salary."

He reiterated his position stated some weeks ago when rumors were first circulated that he might consider going to the Madison institution. He said he would continue here as athletic director with Bernie Bierman taking over the post of football coach which Crisler held during the past two seasons.

Crisler said he was not planning to visit Madison tomorrow as reported in dispatches from there.

Ideal Township Roads Cleared of Snowdrifts

Ideal—Old time Minnesota weather broke out here in the blizzard Thursday. The mail carrier, Mr. Sall, found it impossible to make his route Saturday. E. J. Hauge and Ole Boe snowplowed the road from the east to the west line of Ideal township. The roads are reported to be passable now.

John and Martin Knutson and Hilmer Sata were Brainerd shoppers on Saturday.

Mrs. Ole Johnson and Mrs. N. J. Knutson have been on the sick list the past week with influenza.

Mrs. James Ellwood and daughter, Marjorie, visited at the Ole Boe home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Knutson and two children, Wm. Barnett, and Andrew Danielson were Brainerd shoppers Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stuke, Fred Hollanburg and Martin Knutson were Sunday visitors at the E. J. Hauge home.

Mrs. T. A. Clarquist, Gertrude and Arthur, and Claire Evans, called at the N. J. Knutson home Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Wm. Hollanburg and children, Janet and Ralph, spent last week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franks, at Brainerd.

Mrs. T. A. Clarquist, and Gertrude, Mrs. R. E. Hauge and Alyce, called on Mrs. J. A. Lamont Tuesday afternoon.

NO WONDER!
Tacoma, Wash.—City policemen spent two days looking for Walter Kindervitch, who was wanted in Birmingham for defrauding an innkeeper. Their search was fruitless, however, and they reported their unsuccessful search to headquarters. No wonder they couldn't find Kindervitch! He was in the city jail serving time on a drunken driving charge.

Gopher Hockey Team Defeats Polish Sextet

Minneapolis, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—The University of Minnesota hockey team defeated the Poland Olympic games entry last night 8 to 0.

Superior in skating and combination play the Minnesota team scored almost at will with two counters going in during the first period, three in the middle period and three in the final period.

The Polish attack was unable to get past the strong Gopher defense, but Marchewycki, Polish left wing was a constant threat.

HENIE, SCHAEFFER WIN SKATING CROWN

Montreal, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—Sonja Henie, blonde daughter of Norway, and Carl Schaeffer, slender handsome Austrian, still were queen and king of the world's singles figure skaters today, and M. and Mme. Pierre Brunet of France wore their newly won crown as champion couple after last night's completion of the two-day world's championships at the Forum.

Miss Henie won the world's women's title for the sixth successive time, turning back the challenge of 13 other feminine stars from five countries.

Schaeffer, wizard of Vienna, who looks more like a movie actor than an athlete, won the men's title by a wide margin.

In the women's event, Miss Fritz Berger, Austria, placed second; Mrs. Constance Wilson-Samuel, Canada, third, and Miss Maribel Y. Vinson, Boston, fourth; Miss Margaret Bennett, Minneapolis, was twelfth.

RED DEVILS CLEAN UP AITKIN 7 TO 0 IN ONE SIDED CONTEST

Handicapped by a small narrow rink, the Brainerd Red Devils came through with their seventh straight victory last night, winning at Aitkin with ease by the score of 7 to 0.

A "Swede" Graff, flashy right wing, was high point man for Brainerd, finding the net with three goals, one in each of the three periods. McIntosh, star left wing, was next with two to his credit. Gabiou and Rofidal each tallied one apiece.

The Brainerd Red Devils will play two fast afternoon games here Sunday and Monday. Sunday they will clash with the Staples team while on Washington's birthday they will meet the Flying Aces of Crosby-Ironton. The range squad defeated Aitkin on their own rink last Sunday 20 to 1.

The scoring last night follows: First period, Graff, 9 min., Gabiou, 12 min.; second period, Graff, 3 min., Rofidal, 5 min., McIntosh, 13½ min.; third period, Graff, 2 min., McIntosh, 14 min.

The lineups:
Brainerd: G. Henderson, R.W. D. Fuller, E. Gabiou, C. Smith, Greenier, R.D. F. MacGregor, Rofidal, L.D. G. MacGregor.

Spares: Brainerd, Cheney, Iw.; Fogelstrom, c.; Sinclair, rw.; Lukens, ld.; H. Graff, rd. Aitkin, E. Fuller, rw.

Goals by periods:
Brainerd 2 3 2
Aitkin 0 0 0

Stops by periods:
Brainerd 4 3 4
Aitkin 1 3 4

Referee—Vernon, Aitkin.

Terry Favored to Win Over Chick Devlin

New York, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—Young Terry, slashing middleweight of Trenton, N. J., is a 7 to 5 favorite to defeat Chick Devlin of San Francisco in their ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight.

In the other ten rounder, Billy Townsend, middleweight from Vancouver, B. C., is a 6 to 5 favorite to beat Eddie Ran of Poland. Both recently succumbed to Billy Petrolle.

Both Devlin and Terry are two of the outstanding challengers for the National Boxing Association's new middleweight champion, Gorilla Jones. They are fast, busy, hard-hitting fighters, each is 22.

THREE MAJOR CLUBS LAUNCH TRAINING GRIND IN SOUTHLAND

Los Angeles, Feb. 18.—(U.P.)—The New York Giants arrived in Los Angeles this morning to start spring practice as soon as the weather man can arrange it.

The advance guard of the Chicago Cubs arrived a couple of days too soon and found themselves forced to use an old dance pavilion yesterday to toss the ball around.

A party of 24 is included in the Giants' traveling group, in charge of James Tierney, secretary of the club. Some ten of them are writers and camp followers, the others baseball players. More will follow next week.

Dave Bancroft will officiate as coach until John J. McGraw arrives from Havana, Cuba, where he spent the winter. They will practice at Wrigley Field.

The Cubs are at Avalon, Catalia Island, where rain held up their work yesterday. Most of the early arrivals are rookies. The veterans, with the exception of five already there, will report in 10 days.

The Pittsburgh Pirates will enter California Sunday, establishing their training quarters at Paso Robles.

Chico, Calif., Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—Twenty-seven members of the Detroit Tigers baseball club began spring training today at Richardson's Springs, 12 miles from here, under the wing of Manager Bucky Harris and Coach Jewell Ens. Fifteen other players are expected shortly.

Hamas' Manager Routs Two Armed Bandits

Los Angeles, Feb. 19.—(U.P.)—Charles Harvey, manager of Steve Hamas, sensational young heavyweight boxer, can't knock out fighters the way his charge does, but can fight armed bandits for $5,000.

Police revealed his achievement today, relating that Harvey knocked aside the guns of two bandits who followed him to his hotel room Wednesday night and grappled with them.

He received a severe beating, but raised such a furore the robbers fled just before Hamas arrived in response to his cries.

The purse Hamas won by knocking out Armand Emanuel Tuesday night.

RESIDENT HERE FOR 45 YEARS STRICKEN IN MILL CITY TODAY

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. JULIA McDONALD TO BE HELD IN BRAINERD

Resident of Brainerd for about 45 years, Mrs. Julia McDonald died this morning in the Masonic Home, Minneapolis, of which she had been a guest the past five years.

Mrs. McDonald was born in New York September 27, 1851. Her husband passed away about 40 years ago in Brainerd. He was an employee of the Northern Pacific Railway Co.

The remains will be brought to Brainerd today.

Congregational funeral services will take place in the church at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with Rev. N. P. Olmsted officiating. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

COUNTY DEMOCRATS CONVENE FEB. 27 IN FARMERS' ROOM

Democrats in Crow Wing county will meet here Saturday, Feb. 27, for their county convention to elect delegates to the state Democratic convention in St. Paul, Wednesday, March 9 at 11 a. m.

The convention here will open at 1 p. m. in the farmers' room of the court house.

Announcement of the meeting was made today by Harry J. O'Brien, chairman of the Democratic County Committee.

RENAME MISS McCABE SECY - TREASURER STATE CREDIT GROUP

SECRETARY OF LOCAL CREDIT BUREAU WINS IMPORTANT STATE ASSOCIATION POST

Miss G. P. McCabe, secretary of the Brainerd Credit Bureau, was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Retail Credit Bureau Association at a joint session of the association with the north central division of the National Retail Credit Association.

The election was conducted during the three-day session this week at Minneapolis which was attended by Miss McCabe.

Other officers elected to the state association were: George Fairley, Duluth, president; R. E. Walker, St. Paul, vice president; H. E. Jensen, McLeod county, and C. C. Hanson, Albert Lea, directors.

Grand Forks, N. D., was chosen as the 1933 convention city.

Officers elected to the north central division of National Credit Association were: John Hesketh, Grand Forks, president; James Dugan, Superior, vice president; Dorothy Yergen, Duluth, secretary and treasurer; H. W. Hokas, Minneapolis; Frank Butler, St. Paul; A. G. Zock, Aberdeen, S. D.; and Rustan O. Thayer, Minneapolis, directors.

Governor Floyd B. Olson was the principal speaker at the convention. He declared the farmer is the foundation of all society and charged that his present stress is the result of not obtaining credit in the same proportion as have other interests in the country.

HALE ON TRIP TO WYOMING OIL FIELD

Paul M. Hale, Deerwood, left New York City today for the Wyoming oil fields with a group of petroleum experts, it was learned here in news dispatches from New York City.

Hale is widely known in Brainerd and on the Cuyuna range. He has been associated with mining interests on the range for several years and is also interested in oil fields in Wyoming. His father, the late Judge Hale, came to Deerwood from Duluth about 25 years ago during the iron ore rush. Hale's family resides at Deerwood.

"WHAT A RABBIT"

Nothing more or less than the actions of a jackrabbit completely baffled one of Brainerd's farmers the other day.

John Gallas, living about 10 miles northeast of the city, had set rabbit snares here and there and soon noticed that they were repeatedly broken—and no catch.

Driving by in his car, a neighbor, Clarence Harding, became aware of something struggling by the roadside. And there lay the key to the mystery, in its last throes with death. Harding put the animal out of its misery and then took it to Gallas where the two examined and weighed it. Around the rabbit's neck were wound four strands of wire, broken from the traps. The rabbit tipped the scales at nine pounds. "What a rabbit," Gallas exclaimed.

Library Here Observes George Washington Day

Officials of the library also wish to announce that all material issued by the Washington Bicentennial Commission is available at the library for the public's use.

First Pictures of Actual Fighting in Shanghai

These pictures were rushed by fast liner from Shanghai to San Francisco and sent by Telephoto to Chicago for the NEA Service and The Daily Dispatch.

Above: Japanese Wooga Shag machine-guns behind a barricade near the North Station which they have been trying to take since the landing of their troops.
Below: Wounded Japanese soldiers in a dressing station waiting for transportation to the hospital. The Japanese have run into much more opposition than they expected at Shanghai, and have suffered heavy losses.

BRAINERD SEEN AS LOGICAL PLACE FOR PROPOSED BIG FUR EXPERIMENTAL FARM

Aligned with the introduction of a bill in the house by Congressman Harold Knutson for the appropriation of $100,000 for a national fur breeding experimental farm for Minnesota is the understanding that the proposed farm will be located near Brainerd.

The suggestion of a fur breeding experimental farm for Minnesota originated by requests of fur breeders here and has the endorsement for several hundred fur breeders in the sixth district.

Recommendations to congress to establish the farm in Minnesota was made by resolution at the last session of the Minnesota legislature outlining the importance of the fur breeding industry to Minnesota and the need for experimental farm.

More than 2500 licensed fur breeders are operating within the state with an investment of more than $25,000,000 in breeding stock besides the value of the real estate and equipment used in connection with the industry. Sales of raw furs within the state annually total more than $5,000,000, the great portion being derived from fur breeding farms, the resolution passed by the Minnesota legislature outlined.

Clement Thompson, Brainerd, in charge of the Universal Fur Breeders' Association offices here, has negotiated with Knutson relative to the establishment of the farm in Minnesota and has been a leader in the move to secure the farm for the Brainerd area.

BEMIDJI HOST TO STATE TAXPAYERS ASS'N OFFICIALS

The Minnesota Taxpayers' Association will be guests of the Tax committee of the Bemidji Civic and Commerce Association tomorrow.

J. F. Reed, president of the association announced that this is the sixth district meeting to be conducted by the state association since January 1. Fifty county taxpayers associations have sent delegates to these meetings, Reed said.

This meeting, as well as the others, is part of the state-wide tax reduction campaign. Reed said. Delegates are requested to cooperate closely with township boards on March 3 to effect every economy possible without hampering necessary government activities. Close work with assessors is another phase on which local county associations are urged to give cooperation to see that all property is listed on the tax rolls and properties of like value equalized in fairness to all taxpayers.

Norman A. Forgen of the Minnesota Taxpayers' Association will speak on the research program being conducted by the association, and will indicate by charts the tax trend in Minnesota during the past twenty years for every fund in each division of government. A detailed statement of tax expenditure for Beltrami county will be given as well as a basic study on rural schools.

H. Z. Mitchell, former president of the Minnesota Editorial Association will preside.
